HUSBAND'S LOVE WORTH $10,000

Mrs. Etta M. Shaw of Manilla Files Sensational Suit Against Prominent Shelby County Woman.

THE DIRECT CAUSE OF DIVORCE

Plaintiff Declares Defendant Deliberately Set Out to Gain Affections of Mr. Shaw.

Mrs. Etta M. Shaw, who is now proprietor of a millinery store at Manilla has filed suit against Mrs. Marjorie Sheldon-Vannoy for $10,000 damages, charging that she alienated the affections of Mrs. Shaw's husband. The suit was filed in Shelby county where the family of the defendant is prominent.

The complaint sets out that the plaintiff was married to James O. Shaw of Shelbyville, in 1895, and lived with him until December of 1908. For some time before the separation the plaintiff had noticed that her husband treated her very coldly, but says she did not know at that time the cause of the change in his affection for her. Later on, the plaintiff states, she learned of her husband's relations with Mrs. Vannoy, and shortly afterwards left him.

Mrs. Shaw claims that the defendant in the case deliberately set about to gain Mr. Shaw's affections; that she told Shaw various stories and supposed bits of gossip defaming the plaintiff's good name and falsely and maliciously lied to Mr. Shaw in regard to the plaintiff's actions. No specified charges are set out in the complaint in regard to the particular acts the defendant used to gain the affections of Mr. Shaw, but the evidence which will be introduced along this line promises to be of a highly sensational nature.

LOCALS EXPECTING A HARD FOUGHT GAME

High School Football Team Will Play Strong Kirklin Eleven Tomorrow Afternoon.

HAVE HOPES FOR A VICTORY

Thanksgiving would not be complete without a football game and Rushville it to have one. The local high school eleven will line up with the strong Kirklin high school team at the South Main street grounds tomorrow afternoon. The game will be called promptly at 2:30 o'clock. The local athletes have great hopes for a victory as they have the strongest team this year that they have ever had for several seasons. But the visitors will also be strong and a warmly contested game is expected.

Kirklin claimed the State championship last year, and justly, too. They were not defeated during the season and had a list of strong teams on their list of has-beens. And Rushville was among the bunch for they lost to Kirklin last year. But they are going to attempt to make up for past losses tomorrow and play the best game in the career of the team.

TO PREACH LAST SERMON

Revival Services at the First Baptist Church Closes Tonight.

The Rev. H. M. Bell, the evangelist who has been conducting the services at the First Baptist church, will preach his final sermon in this city and the revival will close. The series of meetings has been very successful, and it is hoped that the last night will be the best of all.

SERMON SUBJECT FOR THANKSGIVING

The Rev. E. C. Meyers will preach at Union Service on "Obligations of Blessings."

AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The annual Thanksgiving service will be held Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Main Street Christian church. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. E. C. Meyers of the First Baptist church. Mr. Meyers will take for his subject, "The Obligations of Blessings." This service is the principal celebration of Thanksgiving in the city, and as it is a union service of all the churches there is every reason why a large crowd should greet Mr. Meyers. His sermon will be interesting and helpful and will outline the reasons for Thanksgiving and put you in a frame of mind to appreciate the day properly. Special music will be given.

OVER PROSPERITY CAUSES DAMAGE

Corn Crop is Too Large and Ray Bowles of Center Township Loses Buggy.

CRIB GROANS AND THEN FALLS

Ray Bowles of Center township lost a buggy in a peculiar way. Nobody stole it, nor did "anybody" destroy it. Nevertheless the buggy is a hopeless wreck. He had the buggy in a shed in a double corn crib. His crop was heavy this year and he had to pile the crib as full as it would hold. Then something happened. The crib literally groaned under its load, and the groaning became a reality for the timbers gave away and the corn came crashing down on the buggy. Several hundred bushels fell on it and as a result the buggy will not be of any use any more.

RECOVERING FROM INJURY

Dan Kinney Fell From the Train to Platform.

Dan Kinney is recovering at his home in West Tenth street from injuries received in a fall Monday. He was standing on the steps of a train at the Big Four station when he lost his balance and fell to the platform. He was considerably bruised up and will probably be laid up for several days. He was on his way to Carthage to attend to duties connected with his position as truant officer for the county.

Thanksgiving

The proclamation for Thanksgiving has been issued and the day should be generally observed. The people of Rushville and Rush county have many things for which they should all be thankful.

If our material blessings are made the basis of thanksgiving, when have the products of the farms been greater and prices more remunerative? The country surrounding Rushville furnishes a splendid market. With progressive merchants in all lines of trade, carrying good stocks of merchandise, with superior stock and grain markets, with four banks and a growing trust company, the facilities for all needed business are ample, and far beyond those to be had in most county seat cities of the size of Rushville.

No city of like size can boast of better churches or better schools, and these facts together with the general thrift of our people give a high tone to our citizenship and make Rushville one of the most attractive resident cities of the State.

While we have not succeeded in obtaining all the things we want to see in needed improvements, new factories and other business enterprises we can all be proud of the fact that we live in the best county in Indiana and have a place among its splendid citizens and can each of us find many things as causes for thanksgiving.

WATCHING THEIR LAND CLOSELY NOW

Farmers Near Milroy Have Been Deputized as Game Wardens And Will Protect Preserve

AND ARE ADDING MORE ACRES

The land owners west of Milroy are watching their game preserve closely and incidentally are adding land to the "forbidden territory" as fast as possible. Many of the land owners have been deputized as deputy game wardens and are now vested with full power to protect their land from unwelcome hunters. They expect to stock the game preserve with pheasants which will be furnished by the State game and fish commissioner. It is expected that other farmers of the county will follow the example set by the Anderson township farmers.

CLERK REFUSES HUNTING LICENSES

But It's Not His Fault For he Ran Out of Blanks at Noon Today.

LAW STILL MISUNDERSTOOD

The clerk's office will dream about hunting licenses tonight.

Honest it's awful the way the hunters are swarming in there asking for the little slips of paper which will permit them to hunt tomorrow. And the clerk has refused to issue the licenses. Not a one has he written since noon today. And what's more, he will not write any more until Friday. However, it's not contrariness on his part for he just simply ran out. He started out this morning with just twenty-six blanks for he sold seventy-nine yesterday. They were gone by noon even after he had explained to a number of people that they did not need licenses to hunt in their own townships or on their own farms.

Then after noon they kept swarming in so there was nothing for him to do but give them receipts for their dollar and promise to give them licenses later.

There will be a called meeting of Lurline Council No. 296 D. of P. at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Margaret English in West First street, to make arrangements to go to Connersville on Tuesday night.

FORMER RESIDENT TO BE BURIED HERE

Remains of J. D. Poundstone Will Arrive Here Tomorrow Morning For Burial.

DIED SATURDAY IN NEEDA, CAL.

The body of J. D. Poundstone, who died at his home in Needa, California, will arrive here tomorrow morning for burial. Mr. Poundstone was a former resident of this county and moved to California several years ago. The deceased was an uncle of Mrs. Robert L. Tompkins of East Seventh street. The death occurred Saturday.

GAME WARDENS IN COUNTY

Will Probably Stay Until After Big Day Thursday.

Two game wardens are in the county looking the place over and incidentally trying to find some violators of the game laws. As far as is known they have found everything satisfactory, but they will probably remain in the county until after tomorrow when the woods will be full of hunters.

COINCIDENCE IN SERMONS

The Rev. Mr. Scull Tells of Peculiar Circumstance.

Milroy Press: In the sermon at the Auditorium Sabbath morning Rev. Scull spoke of the fact that thirty-six years ago he preached his first sermon in the old school house, while the M. E. congregation was building the old church, and just a short time before it was dedicated. Now he was preaching in the fine new school building just before the handsome new church would be dedicated. The large audience enjoyed his sermon.

GOOD IDEA THIS FOR CONNERSVILLE

Charles A. Frazee Suggests That the Postoffice There be Discontinued Like Any Small Town.

GET MAIL ON RURAL ROUTE

New Castle Courier: Postmaster Charles A. Frazee of Rushville was in the city Tuesday on a mission of great importance. He called on Congressman Barnard with a proposition looking to a settlement of the post-office fight at Connersville. Mr. Frazee proposed to the congressman that the postoffice at Connersville be discontinued, as many small town offices are, and that the mail for that place be delivered by rural route from Rushville, its big neighbor.

Mr. Frazee has many New Castle friends and they were all glad to greet him. He has been postmaster a year at Rushville and says that he likes the job very well.

PIONEER CALLED TO GREAT BEYOND

Andrew Gilson Succumbed Last Night After Being Confined to His Bed 16 Months.

SIX DAUGHTERS SURVIVE HIM

Andrew Gilson died at his home in West Seventh street last night about 9:30 o'clock of a complication of diseases. He had been confined to his bed sixteen months and the last few days of his life his death was almost momentarily expected. The deceased was a pioneer of this county and was nearly 77 years old. He had been a life long resident of Rushville and formerly lived in North Perkins street, where his daughters conducted a boarding house. He was a widower, his wife having died seven years ago.

The deceased is survived by six daughters, two brothers and one sister. The daughters are: Mrs. June Keck, Mrs. Charles Worth and Misses Anna, Mary, Maggie and Sadie of this city. Two brothers, Peter and Levi Gilson of this city, and one sister, Mrs. Maggie Stewart of Illinois.

The funeral services will be held at the residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. J. F. Cowling, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which he was a member. Burial will be in East Hill cemetery.

MUCH EXPECTED OF CHARITY BALL

Grand March, Led by Mayor-Elect Black Will Begin Promptly at 8 O'clock.

DOORS WILL OPEN AT SEVEN

Spacious Auditorium Has Been Beautifully Decorated For the Annual Event.

Why not a Charity ball? That is the question. Fully six hundred people are expected tonight for the second annual event which will be held in the Kramer Coliseum. Approximately three hundred tickets have been sold and since each ticket will admit two at the door it is very probable that there will not be many present who has not been accompanied by a friend.

It is estimated that one-half this number will dance which will fill the large skating rink auditorium. The floor has been placed in first class condition for the event. The place was swept thoroughly and then sand-papered so that it is as good for dancing as the best dance floors. Men have been working in the building diligently since yesterday morning in order to have the place in its best dress for the occasion.

The hall has been beautifully decorated with flags and decorations of every nature, including palms and a liberal distribution of American flags. A large platform was erected for the orchestra and a portion of the floor partitioned off for a ladies' dressing room. The seats in the west end of the spacious room will accommodate a large number of spectators which are always on hand for the occasion.

The music will be furnished by a colored five-piece orchestra of Indianapolis, the same one which furnished the music last year. Mayor-elect B. A. Black and wife will lead the grand march which will begin promptly at eight o'clock. Following in regular order in the grand march will come representatives of the following clubs: Social club, Knights of Columbus, Thursday Evening dancing club, and the "You Go I Go" club.

Why is a Charity ball? Why, for sweet charity's sake, of course. The women who have the affair in charge this year expect to clear about $250 and with this they can do much good. Last year they made an amount not quite equal to that, but it was enough so that they could accomplish much during the year. They have assisted many poor families or widows and children who have been in dire distress. The money is in perfectly competent hands, where it will be put to the best use possible.

Even the most pessimistic expect the dance tonight to surpass all previous efforts of the sort. It will not only furnish amusement for a large crowd of people, but they may also have the pleasure of feeling that their money is going into legitimate channels where it will do some good.

The doors will be open at seven o'clock and the grand march will be started promptly at eight o'clock. The floor managers are anxious that everybody be in the grand march.

The Salvation Army grew out of the establishment of a mission in the east end of London by General Booth in 1865.

Rushville's Thanksgiving

Somewhere away back in the remote past Rushville may have had an excuse for not being thankful. But that was years ago—or maybe never.

Of course you hear the calamity howler and the knocker on the street corner occasionally. But after all what would life be if there wasn't some variety. You know there's no excuse for knocking or for criticising or for bewailing fate or anything else. A dash of sunshine is bound to break in on the gloomiest picture you can paint.

If you don't think it's a good old town, if you don't think you like it, just get some one to offer you an opportunity to move away. Why you would stick to this town like flies do to “catch em” paper. And why not? Hasn't the city been good to you? Do you think you could be any happier any place else?

Be the optimist! See the bright spots in life and kick the stumbling blocks out of the way. Look on the knocker as you would on the imitation clown—something to be endured because we have nothing better to take his place.

Now listen! What right has anybody to grumble about Rushville?

We have four seasons here—even on leap year.

It gets hot enough in summer to make you sweat and cold enough in winter to make you shiver.

The trees leave every spring and shed almost every fall.

We have a court house and a town clock which now and then gives you a hint of what time is.

The streets are regular width and four buggies have ample opportunity to race on them—if the police are not around.

And haven't we churches with ministers who preach most every Sunday? And a city park which gives promise of some day being an attractive place? and factory whistles which blow six days in the week? And a bowling alley with pins which dearly loved to be knocked down? And plenty of lodges which meet every now and then?

And gas which burns every time you light it?

And water which quenches your thirst almost every time you drink it?

And a lot of people who are really anxious for a public library?

And a chautauqua association which is the best Rush county ever had?

And a traction line which brings people to visit you?

And a skating rink where you can take a turn by getting a skate on?

And automobiles which use as much gasoline as any in the State?

And railroads which make as much money as the law allows them?

And fewer motorcycles than any city in Indiana?

And grass as green as any in the Blue Grass State?

And women's hats as large as any you ever saw?

And five cent shows with barkers as loud as any you ever heard?

And some hope of having paved streets some day?

And an automatic telephone system on which you can ring your neighbor just as long as you like?

And—well don't you think it's a good old world after all and that Rushville gets its share of the goodness?

An Essay on Human Foot

Man has been described as a parasite, bulbous at one end and bifurcated at the other, says Dr. J. N. Hurty, State Health Commissioner.

He certainly is the arch parasite, preying off all creation, but he is more than bifurcated at one end, for the bifurcations have for termini structures of remarkable and exquisite adaptability and beauty and a mechanical perfection which cannot be surpassed. It was the foot that made the head possible, and yet, ever since the beginning of the molecular movement of the wondrous convoluted mass which fills the dome of man, the foot has been regarded with contempt, no credit given to it for the great part it has played in his development.

The foot was imperatively necessary during the arboreal period of our existence, and had it then been encased as it now is, the conservation of natural resources would never have been considered for the proud parasite who has in the name of development so energetically conducted his campaign of devastation, would have been easily snuffed out in the struggle for existence. Why have we so neglected the foot, yes abused and deformed it, when it has been, is now and ever will be, an all important factor in our existence. Among civilized peoples the encasing and resulting deforming of the foot begins almost immediately after birth, and after ten years of age, all feet have been more or less deformed. In China, the male foot is nearer the normal than among the patent leather nations, but in the Flowery Kingdom, the female foot rivals in its deformity that her sister of Christian lands. For any one who has a trace of artistic sense or an iota of appreciation of beauty, it is a shock to behold the feet today.

The anatomist, when he contemplates the mechanical excellence and rare beauty of the normal human foot, is filled with admiration of the Omnipotence which created it; but when he beholds the twisted, knarled, beunioned, becorned monstrosity of today, he sadly says—only man is vile. Fable has it, that the peacock would die of pride if it were not for his feet, but curious man has made his feet ugly, because of pride. He first sought to protect them, for this became necessary when he abandoned arboreal life, but presently he began to confine them closer and closer, the sandal which carried Caesar's legions to victory, being abandoned for the deforming tight leather box, now universally used. It was false pride that invented and developed the misshapen ugly shoe of today; which inasmuch as it violates every canon of symmetry, beauty and mechanical usefulness as reflected from the normal foot, constitutes a miscarriage of the human brain.

Pride, vain glory and hypocrisy, assisted by stupidity, invented the pointed and crooked shoe of today. Had we possessed the slightest appreciation of the natural symmetry, the beauty and the mechanical excellence and usefulness of the human foot we would not now be suffering to such a degree from spinal and nervous disorders. The French high-heeled shoe is an instrument for public ill health, not equalled by all the bad smelling dead animals rendering establishments belonging to our cities.

Is It Is Or Was

The following is from the Financial Age:

“Dear me, now! exclaimed the nervous old lady with the seventeen packages and the parrot, bound for Cockle-on-the-Shell. “What did the guard say was the next station? Did he say Cockle-on-the-Shell?”

“Excuse me,” remonstrated the girl from Gorton, “you meant what is the next station. It's still a station, you know.”

“You're wrong, madam,” interposed an octogenarian. “What is was isn't it?”

“Don't be ridiculous,” snapped the nervous old lady. “Was may be is; but if was is, then is isn't is, or was wasn't was.” She patted her hand across her fevered brow. “If was is, was is was, isn't it?” she continued. “But if is is was, then—”

“Listen,” interposed a fifth. “Is is; was was; was was was; is is is.”

“Oh, well, anyway,” cried the old lady, “is the next station my station—Cockle-on-the-Shell?”

“No, madam,” replied the octogenarian; “but it was. We have just gone by it.”

Reasons for Thanksgiving

Thoughts, Observations and Opinions by Charles Vettors

At the close of another year's toil when the crops have been cared for and each family gather around their home hearth our minds naturally turn back to the beginning of the season and count the many blessings they have enjoyed during the year drawing to a close. And each one may ask himself what he has to be thankful for.

It must be admitted by all God fearing, liberty loving, patriotic American citizens that they have much to be thankful for and those in the enjoyment of health and enjoy unbroken family circles are the highest favored class in the land.

This Thanksgiving should be one of the greatest in our history. Never has our land been more free from war both foreign and civil and the land more free from pestilence and famine. The soil of the good old fields of the north, east and west along with the plantation of the Sunny South have yielded up bountifully and in sufficiency to insure an abundance of food for the people and forage for the live stock of this great nation. The husbandmen of all parts of the nation have been amply rewarded for their toil while the same is true of those who earn their living by toil—let it be in the factory, mine, shop or as a common laborer. They have all had a chance to earn a living at remunerative wages and lay up something for a less fruitful year.

While the products of the farm have been very high and dear in price during the year drawing to a close the wages of the laborer have been equally as high enabling him to share in the luxuries of the land. This is one of the many things we may be thankful for.

Another thing we may well be thankful for is the marked improvement in morals that has taken place since our local option laws went into effect bringing sunshine into many homes where darkness and depravity long reigned. Still another thing to be thankful for is the way labor has been employed in all our industrial centers and the quiet and contentment that prevails among the wage earners of the densely populated sections of the nation.

With the year closing with the wants of the people amply provided for and prospects for the future so bright does not become every American citizen from the chief executive of the nation down to the humblest citizen to be thankful for what he has today and all join in another Thanksgiving and praise to Almighty God for his loving kindness toward mankind and for the many blessings we enjoy.

PLACE YOUR THOUGHTS ON THANKSGIVING

College Student and Thanksgiving

It's a Time When Home Coming Appeals to Him

There is no place like home—especially on Thanksgiving day. And no one appreciates that any more than a college student. They are glad to get home or get a “ship” from home any time but there have a few little extra heart beats when Doc announces from the rostrum during chapel exercises that the time for giving thanks is rolling around and the students will have the opportunity for enjoying a few days vacation. They don't often applaud but they think of the good turkey dinner and all of the home cooking like mother used to make. So different from the roast beef or pork and a few mashed potatoes cooked up that are better sight for the eyes than fruit for the stomach—no offense to college boarding houses. But they are just like all of the rest of them. Yes it is true their school sometimes plays football on Thanksgiving but if they are going to miss any game of the year it will be that one and they generally take the first train home as soon as a few necessities can be thrown into the grip—College football games are good things to see but there are other things, too.

And how about the Thanksgiving dance. It would be a crime to miss that when they had never been absent on the roll call since they had learned the two step, waltz and barn dance. That would be a crime not to be there to shake hands with all of the old pals and tell them how great it is over at school. How they don't know what they are missing, etc., etc. Then there is the old girl back home, or the old “case” which still has a nook left down in the corner of her heart for him. For there is no gal like the old gal and no town like the home town. And he or she must be there to do the dreamy waltz or the fiery two-step to the time of the perspiring orchestra. But how about the students who live thousands of miles from home? They must sit in their room and think of home. That is all. One by one they see their friends rush for the depot at the last minute to catch a train and then settle down to a several days of solitude and loneliness.

“Granny, is Thanksgivin' day for us poo' colored pussons as well as for de rich ladies you wash fur?” “Why, Abe Lincoln, chile, what is you talkin' about? Hab I done brung you up to ask sich fool questions? Don't de good Lord say as how we mus' be thankful for our marcie's ebery day?” answered the old woman, looking up from her ironing board at her small grandson, who was paring potatoes by the stove. “But granny, you said as we be too poo' for any sort o' puddin'. an ef we got cabbage an' bakin dat's all we might 'pect, an' I do lub a puddin' mighty well.” And Abe seemed ready to set up a wail of sorrow. “It am a fearful sin to lub a pud-din. De good book says you mus' lub your enemies, boy, but it don't gib us no 'couragement to keec fur tings fur no stomach,” granny replied severely. “I ain't got no enemies to lub 'cept dey is de boy on de nex' street dat calls me 'de bowlegged nigger kid,' an' I kant lub 'em as much as a puddin' nohow. I do so want real bad de sort Miss Gray done sent me las Krismus when I broke my leg.” “Plum puddin'!” Well, you air mighty 'bitious to want dat, but you keep on with your potatoes, an' granny will see what she kin do,” declared she more kindly as she stared at her crippled little grandson, the last one left of her once large family. “I'll done gib Abe Lincoln a spree,” she thought as with a flash of joy she called to mind a puddin' of the old time. And this is the pudding that delighted little Abe's heart on Thanksgiving and made him feel as if he, too, participated in the feasts and good things of the day: Cut up two cups of bread fine, half a cup of chopped suet, half a cup of molasses, one egg, one cup of raisins, one cup of sweet milkin which half a teaspoonful of soda is dissolved, half a teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, a pinch o' mace and salt. Boil two hours in a tin puddin boiler. Eat with foaming sauce, which is made thus: Beat half a cup of butter to a cream, add one cup of granulated sugar and stir until it is white and foaming. Just before serving pour on one cup of boiling water and stir a moment—Christian Work. Within five years Uruguay will have 140,000 olive trees, capable of producing two million pounds of olives and fifty thousand gallons gallons of oil. Efforts to utilize the spider's web for practical purposes were made as early as 1710 in France.

Aero---Ball---A Rushville Game in 1940.

While they were waiting for the aero-ball game to start somebody happened to mention the old Thanksgiving—the kind they used to have back in 1909. That was in the days of the automobile and although somebody declared it was true that some people were still traveling in buggies pulled by horses in those days, the majority of the youngsters who heard the statement said the fellow was dreaming. Two of the old boys were discussing old times from their biplanes which were standing along the side lines of the field. They had praised their new 1940 model of machines, talked about the prospects of the game, and there was little else left for them to do but go back in the remote past and discuss Rushville and Rush county in the days when Jabe Smith was custodian of the court house and Harvey Cowing was mayor of the city. “Why I remember very well seeing people come to town driving horses, like we see in the manageries of circuses now,” said John Young who got his start in Rushville clerking for Dora Betker. “And automobiles were actual luxuries then. The farmers were just coming to be real money men of the country. They used to line up around the court house square on Saturday afternoon, and then go around on the street corner and talk about how wonderful it was that Rush county land would turn out seventy-five bushels of corn to the acre. Wonder what some of those fellows would think if they knew that same land was poor now if it did not make 200 bushels. “By the way I guess they wouldn't open their eyes if they saw one of our auto-harvesters taking the big ears from the stalks at the rate of ten acres an hour. Why say, Hunt, times have changed a lot when you come to think about it.” “Yes that's right” replied Geston P. “And sometimes I wish I was still in the hardware business just to sell repairs for those machines. Say I ran across an old Daily Republican the other day. It was about the time that boom started. You remember what a time they had getting things started. Fifteen thousand in 1915 was what they were working for. Of course they were not looking ahead as far as 1940 but I guess the census next year will show Rushville around seventy-five thousand wont it? And I expect if the fellows who were working on that paper then would compare the twenty page paper they put out now with the eight page sheet they used to publish they would think.” “Say look at the fellow coming out here in a dirigible,” he interrupted A. E. Martin. “Those things ought not to be allowed at a game like this. The idea of a man being so far behind the times as to travel in carriage that has to be kept above the ground with a gas bag!” “Well there always will be somebody behind the times,” put in Dr. Lowell Green as he earressed his professional beard. “Hot hamburgers.” It was Jimmie

Adams who though not quite as active as in former years managed to “make” all the big events with his electric cooker. The game was about ready to start and they had to cut out the discussion of the olden days. The machines had taken their places on the field and the ball was in the hands of the referee. The game was an adaptation of the old game of basketball and it was changed to suit modern equipment. The players, instead of staying on the ground, each had an aeroplane. The ball was passed back and forth until it was deposited in the basket fifty feet above the ground. No man was allowed to hold the ball more than two seconds, and the distance between the baskets was 1900 feet.

This game was between two local teams. One was Joseph Cannon Watson, Danold Sparks, Wilbur Spivey, “Urbs” Urbach, and “Young Doc” Hiner. Dwight VanOsdol played the lead machine on the opposing team, and was assisted by John Ryan and his brother Tom, William Frazee, Jr., and Wilbur Cox. The machine started with a spurt and a sputter, dashed, scooped, soared, ducked and backed. Suffice it to say that the game resulted in a tie after an hour's fast playing, and both sides regretted that old times rules that permitted over time for games to play off a tie were not still in vogue. And then the players and spectators sailed away to their homes to enjoy a good dinner with their families.

Wednesday, November 24, 1909.

Tomorrow is the day set apart for all the world to be thankful. Government has issued a proclamation that the day be set apart in this State and that each man, woman and child return thanks for the blessings which have been his during the year.

And if you stop for a minute and think you can not but be thankful, no matter what your predicament, no matter what your station in life. The country has been prosperous during the year just closed. Of course there have been things of which you have not approved—things which you would have changed had it been in your power. But any man living as a citizen under the American flag has reason to be thankful.

Perhaps things have seemed a bit unjust to you at times. Perhaps things have not all been rosy with you. Perhaps you have suffered either from sickness or the visit of the death angel.

Look about you! See how much better off you are than your neighbor! Picture his misfortune and his fortune as they are and then take an invoice of yourself and your family. See how much better off you are than your neighbor. It is not a thing to brag about—it is to be thankful for.

The whole world has been good to you, it has been good to you, it has been unusually good to you in the light of some other people's circumstances. Have you a home? Then be thankful. Have you a friend? Then be thankful. Have you liberty? Then be thankful.

The Haul of Fain

By Anybody, of Anywhere, at Anytime

Henry P. McGuire was the last clerk of the town of Rushville and signed the records making it a city in 1883.

Thankfulness

By Bliss Carman.

Here in the sifted sunlight
A spirit seems to brood
On the beauty and worth of being,
In tranquil, instinctive mood;
And the heart, athrob with gladness
Such as the wise earth knows,
Wells with a full thanksgiving
For the gifts that life bestows:

For the ancient and virile nurture
For the teeming primordial ground,
For the splendid gospel of color,
The rapt revelations of sound;
For the morning-blue above us
And the rusted gold of the fern,
For the chickadee's call to valor
Bidding the faint-heart turn;

For fire and running water,
Snowfall and summer rain;
For sunsets and quiet meadows,
The fruit and the standing grain;
For the solemn hour of moonrise
Over the crest of trees,
When the mellow lights are kindled
In the lamps of the centuries.

But most of all for the spirit
That can not rest nor bide
In the stale and sterile convenience,
Nor safety proven and tried,
But still inspired and driven,
Must seek what better may be,
And up from the loveliest garden
Must climb for a glimpse of sea.

Why I Am Thankful

Being a Few Reasons Rushville Men Would Give If Asked

FON RIGGS—

That there has been so much nice weather for horse back riding.

WILL BLISS—

That the warm weather at least did not hinder the sale of neckwear.

LEE PLYE—

That every shirt which wears out is not a new shirt.

FRED JOHNSON—

That I had some more "snow" to take the place of that which burned.

VERN NORRIS—

That I have learned to quit "clucking" at my auto.

W. A. ALLEN—

That there is a bowling alley so I can roll five back.

CHARLES FRAZEE—

That there was no appointment to make in the postoffice here this year.

LINK GUFFIN—

That I can still laugh and enjoy it as much as ever.

FRANK WILSON—

That there are still some horses in the world to admire.

T. W. LYTLE—

That a druggist's life is not all store remodeling.

JOHN DEMMER—

That there is still a "bond" of sympathy between me and the people and that there is a great day coming.

That I have finally decided to stay in Rushville.

Thanksgiving Causes A Post Card Famine

Merchants' Supply Exhausted and Postal Clerks are Swamped

Did you get a Thanksgiving post card? Well, you're lucky. There are a lot of people who wanted them but didn't get them. Yesterday afternoon there was a post card famine in Rushville. Oh, there were several post cards left in town, but not a one with a Thanksgiving greeting. Few people have any idea how many post cards are bought here in Rushville.

One dealer yesterday sold five hundred post cards for Thanksgiving and could have sold that many more if he had them. He ordered a fresh stock to reach this city this morning. And the fact of the matter was most of these were gone before they reached the city, for he was taking orders last night ranging all the way from ten to twenty-five.

There has been a post card craze here for some time, but in the last few weeks it has become a disease. They take them in ten and twenty-five doses. Really from all indications it will become necessary for the Prohibitionists to put something in their next platform, not prohibiting, but limiting each woman to—well, say twenty-five a week anyway. Women, of course, are the principal purchasers of the cards, but the men get in on it occasionally.

The postoffice authorities are breaking their backs—figuratively speaking, of course—over the rush of post cards. Yesterday almost sixteen hundred post cards were sent out through the local office. Now you may not believe that, but it is true. And that was two days before Thanksgiving. Yes sir! Sixteen hundred to say nothing of those which came in. And practically every card which is sent out means one or more coming back. Last year three days before Christmas the postoffice handled 950 and thought that was going some. And the Christmas business is much heavier than the Thanksgiving mail. So the postal clerks are afraid to think of what the Christmas rush this year will be.

Birthday showers, and showers for sick people are becoming so numerous that they will have to be called cloud bursts soon. And, of course, the postal clerks get the benefit (?) of all this, too.

Value of Home Trading

The Shelbyville Democrat tells this interesting little story:

A Shelbyville resident was in the market for a commodity which a local man had in stock. This local dealer happens to have an interest in a house in Indianapolis carrying a similar line or goods. This would-be purchaser went to this merchant and asked him what he would take for a certain amount. He was soon informed, but after all efforts to get a lower price had bore no fruit, he left, at the same time saying he would go elsewhere.

When this same business man was at Indianapolis a few days ago another member of the Indianapolis firm told him that a Shelbyville resident had been there and purchased a bill of goods. After examining both bills our friend discovered that the customer had paid eight dollars more for his bill in Indianapolis than he could have purchased the same for in Shelbyville. When the freight was paid the difference would amount to more than nine dollars.

There is more than one lesson to be drawn from this. The first is that it is best to trade with home merchants. The second is that merchants should do persistent newspaper advertising and keep their name and the names of their goods where the buying public can see them.

Pathetic Story for Thanksgiving Eve

An Incident From Real Life Right Here in Rush County

The case of John Warr who is at the poor house, suffering with severe injuries is one which can well be cited on this Thanksgiving eve. Warr it will be remembered was picked up unconscious Sunday morning along the I. & C. tracks. Perhaps he was the victim of some other man's meanness. Perhaps he was the victim of his own faults. In either case his story is pathetic.

Oh, but somebody says he is a "low brow," a man who can expect nothing better. That alters the case little. That man is human just like you are. He once had a comfortable home back in the sunny south. Down in North Carolina he has a mother and a father. Perhaps tonight his mother will sit and wonder where her boy is. She does not know that he is suffering with injuries and being cared for by the county. That mother loves her boy just like you love yours, and perhaps as deeply.

Last April Warr left his home in North Carolina to seek his fortune in the golden west. He went to Colorado, but found little there. Then he came to the Hoosier state hoping to find—well possibly in his uncultured way working toward an ideal which he has cherished as much as any Rushville boy ever did. True he probably did not make the best of his advantages, and probably he was a bit reckless—but that boy has a mother.

He stayed in Indianapolis until he was tired of or disgusted with the place. Then he had a longing to go back home. How he tried to do it is not known for he is not in a condition to tell. It is probable that he tried to steal a ride on a train. If all had gone well he would have spent Thanksgiving with his parents. Instead he will toss about in his bed at the poor farm. No bosom friends to comfort him, no mother's hand to soothe his brow—merely the cold hard hearted business world to take care of him because it must.

And his parents—little is known of them. But it is probable that they will wonder why they have not heard from their wandering boy. And then they will be thankful at least that he is alive. Little do they think that he is suffering from injuries from which he may never recover.

Look at that boy's case! Are you any better off than he is? Have you any more reason to be thankful than he has? Have you been blessed in comparison to what he has? Don't brood over his case—you can't help that. But be thankful that you have been blessed like you have.

Will Spend the Day Hunting Cotton Tails

Old Fashioned Way of Spending Thanksgiving is Still Modern

Of course, they are all going hunting. There are three boys in the family and they together with their father will spend Thanksgiving day out in the cold dreary woods and fields when they ought to be in before the fire eating turkey and cranberries. Thanksgiving day hunting has a great attraction for many men. It is a strong magnet—so strong that it draws into its folds a great majority of the men who take a day's vacation on Thanksgiving day and can throw a gun over their shoulder.

And the peculiar thing about Thanksgiving day hunters on the day for giving thanks, and the bunnies have been taught to watch for guns with the same care that the turkey has been taught to be on the lookout for the ax. The experts do not generally go hunting on Thanksgiving day, but generally those who only have the opportunity once or twice a year. Undoubtedly the fields and woodlands of Rush county will be well filled with them this year from the number of licenses which have been sold.

Of course, hunters will hunt, because there is just that much of the savage instincts left in human nature that it has to break out at least once a year. But some there are who can not hold it in that long and rush to the highlands and lowlands as soon as the game law comes in force.

It has long been a custom for the city cousin to visit the country relative on Thanksgiving day and this is a custom which has not worn out by usage as is the case with some customs. There are many city fellows who look forward to the annual holiday to go to the country and look for the bob-tail bunny and take a shoot at him. But the bunny is next and he seldom even bats an eye for he knows that his city friend could not hit a large stock barn. But when his old friend whom he meets several times each year appears with a gun then it is time to scamper away.

But Thanksgiving hunting, whether it is or is not profitable and enjoyable sport, remains to be seen. It is a case of the survival of the fittest, and the weak will eventually die. But not so the rabbit—he will live on forever. But the next day after Thanksgiving there will not be quite so many of them to go on forever for no matter how poor shots the Thanksgiving hunters are a few of them will surely hit a bunny occasionally. But that is neither here nor there. There will be a whole army of hunters in the fields of Rush county and here's good luck to them.

gris marrying these blamed foreigners," growled the tender hearted O'Mally. "Why did you do it?"
"I am almost Italian, Mr. O'Mally. I had no choice in the matter. The affair was prearranged by our parents, after the continental fashion."

When Hillard and La Signorina were at length alone he asked, "When shall I see you again?"

"Who knows? Some day, perhaps, when time has softened the sharp edges of this moment. Tomorrow I shall write, or very soon."

"You will send for me?" with eagerness and hope.

"Why not? There is nothing wrong
in our friendship, and I prize it.
Promise."

"I promise. Goodbye! For a little while I have lived in paradise. Where-ever I may be, at the world's end, you have but to call me. In a month,
in a year, a decade, I shall come.
Goodbye!" Without looking at her again he rushed away.

She remained standing there as motionless as a statue. He had not asked her if she loved him, and that was well. But there was not at that moment in all the length and breadth of Italy a lonelier woman than her highness the Principessa di Monte Bianca.
Meanwhile the prince, raging, mounted his horse. Eh, well! This time tomorrow night the American should pay dearly for it all.

And the woman—he could never understand her. But for her fool's conscience he could not have been riding the beggar's horse today. She was now too self reliant, too intelligent. She was her father over again, soldier and diplomat.

He was riding past the confines of the villa when a man darted out suddenly from the shadows and seized the bridle.
"At last, my prince!"
"Giovanni!"

Instinctively the prince reached for his saber, knowing that he had need of it, but the scabbard was empty.
He cursed the folly which had made him lose it. Oddly enough, his thought ran swiftly back to the little casa in the Sabine hills. Bahl! Full of courage, knowing that one or the other would not leave this spot alive, he struck his horse, with purpose this time, to run his man down. But Giovanni did not lose his hold. Hate and the nearness of revenge made him strong.

"No, no!" he laughed. "She is dead, my prince. And I—I was not going to seek you. I was going to let hell claim you in its own time. But you rode by me tonight. This is the end."

The prince unhooked his scabbard and swung it aloft. But Giovanni was fully prepared. He released the bridle, his arm went back, and his knife spun through the air. Yet in that instant in which Giovanni's arm was poised for the cast the prince lifted his horse on its haunches. The knife gashed the animal deeply in the neck.
Still on its haunches, it backed, wild with the unaccustomed pain. The lip of the road, at this spot rotten and unprotected, gave way. The prince tried to urge the horse forward. The hind quarters sank, and the prince tried in vain to slip from the saddle.
There came a crash, a cry, and horse and rider went pounding down the gorge.

Giovanni trembled, and the sweat on his body grew cold. For several minutes he waited, dreading, but there was no further sound. He searched mechanically for his knife, recovered it and then crept down the abrupt side of the gorge till he found them.
They were both dead.

"Holy Father, thou hast waited seven years too long!" Giovanni crossed himself.

He gazed up at the ledge where the tragedy had begun. The cloud passed and revealed the shining muskets of two carabinieri, doubtless attracted by the untoward sounds. Giovanni stole over the stream and disappeared into the blackness beyond.

It was Merrihew who yoked the sleeping cabby, pushed Hillard into a seat and gave the final orders which were to take them out of the Villa Ariadne forever. He was genuinely moved over the visible misery of his friend. When

All Newspapers Should Copy This

This Offer Should be a Warning to Every Man and Woman.

The newspapers and medical journals have had much to say relative to a famous millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach.

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach. He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.
His misfortune should serve as a warning to others. Every one who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give everything he owns for a new stomach.

Dyspepsia is caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices. There is one element missing—Pepsin. The absence of this destroys the function of the gastric fluids. They lose their power to digest food.

We are now able supply the pepsin in a form almost identical to that naturally created by the system when in normal health, so that it restores to the gastric juices their digestive power, and thus makes the stomach strong and well.

We want everyone troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia to come to our store and obtain a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. They contain Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin prepared by a process which develops their greatest power to overcome digestive disturbance.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are very pleasant to take. They soothe the irritable, weak stomach, strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, relieve nausea and indigestion, promote nutrition and bring about a feeling of comfort.

If you give Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets a reasonable trial we will return your money if you are not satisfied with the result. Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Rushville only at our store—The Rexall Store. Lytle's Drug Store.

One Million Dollars For A Good Stomach

We cheerfully copy the following:
"I hope that every newspaper in the country will copy this. If they will, they will do worlds of good for thousands of sick people who are now suffering as I did for years with my stomach and kidneys, but thanks to the wonderful medicine that is now doing so much good all over the country, I am liberated from my years of torture and am once more enjoying the great blessing of good health. For several years my back was hurting me most of the time, and I would have to get up from ten to fifteen times every night on account of my kidneys. My food would sour and burn in my stomach and I would bloat and belch until I would get dizzy and nervous. I was badly constituted, and had to be taking something all the time. If I didn't I was sure to have a bad spell of sick headache. No one knows how much I did suffer, but after taking the great remedy, Root Juice, a short time, I began to improve, and after using about six bottles I am strong and well, and feel like a boy. I am glad to tell every sick person all about it, because I sympathize with those who suffer as I did." L. F.
Pratt, South Bend, Ind. It is well known here that Root Juice is certainly a wonderful medicine. It is sold for one dollar a bottle or three bottles for two dollars and a half.

they arrived at the white hotel in the Borgognissanti Merrihew was glad.

At 9 in the morning Hillard heard a fist banging on the panels of the door.
"Open, Jack! Hurry!" cried Merri-hew outside.

Hillard opened the door. "What's the trouble, Dan?" he asked.

Merrihew whispered, "Dead!"

"Who?" Hillard's heart contracted.

"The prince. They found him and his horse at the bottom of the gorge.
The concierge says that there has been foul play—tracks in the dust, a strange cut in the neck of the horse and a scabbard minus its saber. Now, what the devil shall I do with the blamed sword?"

Dead! Hillard sat down on the edge of the bed. Dead! Then she was free, free!

"What shall I do with the sword?"
demanded Merrihew a second time.

"Put it in the bottom of the trunk and leave it there till you land in New York. But the prince dead? You are sure?"

"Florence rings with the story."

And then Merrihew noticed. Hillard still wore his evening clothes and the bed was untouched.

"That's very foolish."

"Why, I couldn't have closed my eyes," replied Hillard.

"But won't she need you up there?"

Merrihew was obviously troubled.

"If she needs me she'll send for me.
I shall remain here and wait. She is free. Thank God!"

"Didn't Giovanni tell us that he had friends in Fiesole, near Florence, and that he was going to visit them?"
asked Merrihew.

"Giovanni! I had forgotten. But what had my old valet against the prince?"

"Giovanni had a daughter," said Merrihew. "His knife left a scar on the man. The prince carried a long scar on his cheek."

Hillard began dressing in his day clothes, stopping at times and frowning at the walls.

At night the last of the American Comic Opera company straggled into the hotel. O'Mally, verbose as ever, did all the talking.

"You wouldn't know her," he said, referring to La Signorina, for they would always call her that. "When she heard of that duffer's death I swear that she believed you had a hand in it. But when she heard that the accident had occurred before you left the villa she just collapsed. The police were hunting for the missing saber. Of course we knew nothing about it," with a wink at Merrihew.

There isn't anything so annoying or so painful nor is there anything quite so hard to get rid of as piles.
ManZan, the great pile remedy, is the best you can use, for it directly reaches the seat of the trouble and at once relieves and soothes pain. It is applied by means of a tube with nozzle attached. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

When the others were gone Hillard
asked Kitty if she had any news.

"She said that she would write you and for you to remain here till you received the letter."

"Was that all?"

"Yes. Have you seen anything of that wretched man Worth, who is the cause of all this trouble?"

"No, nor do I care to."

Kitty and Merrihew went out together.

They were gone to America, and Hillard was alone. He missed them all sorely—Merrihew with his cheery laugh, Kitty with her bright eyes and O'Mally with his harmless drolleries.
And no letter!

Daily he searched the newspapers for news of Giovanni. But to all appearances Giovanni had vanished, as indeed he had, forever out of Hillard's sight and knowledge.

The letter came one week after the departure of his friends. It was postmarked Venice. And the riddle was solved.

SHOCKING DEATH

Congressman DeArmond and Grandson Fatally Burned.

Kansas City, Nov. 24.—Representative David A. DeArmond, one of the leading Democratic members of congress, and his grandson, Waddie De-Armond, aged six years, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the DeArmond home at Butler, Mo.

It is believed that Mr. DeArmond sacrificed his life in a heroic effort to save his grandson. It is thought he was aroused in time to save himself, but that in awakening the boy and attempting to carry him from danger he became confused in the smoke, which was momentarily growing denser, and was overcome before he was able to find the way out.

Mr. Taft Extends Sympathy.

Washington, Nov. 24.—President Taft was shocked by the death of Representative DeArmond. Mr. DeArmond was a member of the "Taft party" which went to the Philippines several years ago. The president sent the following telegram to Mrs. DeArmond:
"Mrs. Taft and I are shocked to hear the dreadful news. We sympathize deeply with you in your sorrow. Your husband and I were very intimate. I value his friendship highly. He was an earnest, able servant of the people and a patriot. My heart goes out to you in your loss."

TOBACCO CIRCLES GREATLY STIRRED

Court's Decision May Dissolve
the Present Pool.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 24.—Judge
James M. Benton, in the circuit court at Winchester, sustained the prayer of J. E. Gaitskill and other tobacco growers of central Kentucky and granted the motion of the plaintiffs for a receiver for the Burley Tobacco Society.
The court held that the society had no legal right to use the money accru-ing from the pools of the 1906 and 1907 crops to further the interests of the pool this year, as the pool this year was a separate and distinct organization from the pool of other years.

Clarence Lebus, president of the Burley society, refused to discuss the action, but Colonel J. R. Allen, chief counsel for the society, stated that the decision would be appealed. The action of the court created a sensation in tobacco circles in Lexington and central Kentucky, and in some quarters it is believed the decision of Judge Benton will result in a dissolution of the pool.

Will Sell Independently.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 24.—Evansville tobacco manufacturers have received information that the Indiana counties of Perry, Spencer and Warrick, formerly interested in the pool with the tobacco growers in the Green river district in Kentucky, have withdrawn and say they will no longer pool with the Kentucky growers, but will sell independently.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN.

Bad Stomach Causes Unsightly Complexions.—Johnson's Drug Store
Has a Remedy.

Bad somachs mean bad blood;
bad blood means sallow, unattractive skin.

Why? The stomach in a healthy condition separates the nutritious matter from the food and gives it to the blood to supply the entire body with nourishment.

If the stomach is not in a healthy condition it does not separate from the food the nutritious matter and it passes off with the waste.

Thus the blood is impoverished and has not sufficient nourishment to supply the muscles, skin and body generally.

If you have belching of gas, distress after eating, nausea, biliousness, nervousness or foul breath, then your stomach is wrong and you want the best prescription for stomach troubles the world has ever

Weak Over-worked Women

Who are broken down and made invalids by the drudgery of never ending household cares and duties, or by over-frequent bearing and nursing of children, and many other cares, burdens and strains which the weaker sex have to bear, are deserving of profound sympathy. But while sympathy is commendable what these unfortunate women most need is a good, honest, square-deal Restorative Tonic and Strength-giving Nervine and Regulator—one compounded and carefully adapted to act in harmony with woman's peculiar, delicate, ever sensitive organization.

Who so well fitted to select, carefully proportion the ingredients and compound a remedy for the cure of these distressing and often pain-wracking weaknesses and derangements, as the carefully and thoroughly educated and regularly graduated physician who has had a long and successful experience in treating just this class of cases.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

THIS MEDICINE IS

THE ONE REMEDY Now, and for over 40 years, sold by druggists for Woman's Peculiar Weaknesses, and Distressing Ailments, gotten up by one having all of the above qualifications.

THE ONE REMEDY which absolutely contains neither alcohol (which to most Women is rank poison) nor injurious or habit-forming drugs.

THE ONE REMEDY which is so perfect in its composition and so good in its curative effects as to warrant its makers in printing its every ingredient, as they do, on its outside wrapper, verifying the same under solemn oath.

In all the above most important particulars, the "Favorite Prescription" stands absolutely alone—in a class all by itself—as woman's most reliable and trust-worthy remedy in time of sickness and distress. It is a pure glyceric extract made from American curative roots, found by long time experience most valuable in curing woman's weaknesses and derangements. The leaders in all schools of medical practice have endorsed each of its ingredients as of the best known remedies for the complicated affections for which it is recommended. These professional endorsements should count for far more than any number of lay testimonials. A booklet full of them sent free on receipt of name and address.

WAS VEILED IN DEEP MYSTERY

No One Knows What Went On In Cabinet.

PINGPONG OR MARBLES, MAYBE

From All the Information That Could Be Elicited Regarding the First Meeting of the President's Advisers Since His Return, It Might Have Been, So Far as the Public Is Advised, Some Such Innocent Diversion Occupying the Time of the Nation's Pillars of State—Unusual Secrecy Attends a Three-Hours' Conference.

Washington, Nov. 24.—From the president himself to the third assistant secretaries of departments, or from any person connected directly, indirectly, inferentially or momentarily with the cabinet of President Taft to say what occurred at the meeting yesterday, is the thought most remote. Of course the session lasted only three hours and there were but a few unimportant matters, such as the selection of an associate justice of the supreme court, the Standard Oil decision, the Nicaraguan affair, the president's forthcoming message, the proposed amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law, and the interstate commerce act that might have come up. True, the naming of an assistant secretary of the treasury, an assistant secretary of the department of commerce and labor, a surveyor of the port of New York, a first assistant postmaster general could have been considered, but then, no matter.

One by one the cabinet officers came out from the cabinet room. Secretary Knox said there had not been any talk of the Nicaraguan dispute, Secretary Meyer and Secretary Dickinson affirming; Secretary MacVeagh said there had not been any talk about the sugar trust case. Secretary Wickensham said the Standard Oil decision had not come up; Secretary Nagel said appointments were not considered. Secretary Ballinger said he had not asked for the dismissal of Gifford Pinchot or proffered his own resignation.

Nobody asked about the "Roosevelt conspiracy" and the return from Elba. The postmaster general hurried out while the hungry newsgatherers were busy telephoning the important cabinet news to their offices, so nobody saw him. Secretary Wilson, everybody knew, had not talked about agriculture, because there are no boll weevils or cattle diseases. Secretary Carpenter was asked later in the day what was under discussion and he in turn asked Mr. Taft. When Mr. Carpenter came out he said that there was not anything that could be said about the meeting. Probably marbles or pingpong was played. It was a gloomy day outside, anyhow, and three hours' recreation would make new men of everyone there.

HE WANTS TO KNOW

Bendernagel Asks Leave to Inspect Minutes of Grand Jury.

New York, Nov. 24.—A motion was filed today by Henry F. Cochrane, counsel for James F. Bendernagel, former superintendent of the American Sugar company at the Williamsburg refinery, under indictment for conspiracy to defraud the government on sugar importations, for leave to inspect the minutes of the grand jury and to quash the indictment on the ground that it is founded on incompetent testimony.

Bendernagel's affidavit says the indictment does not allege the commission by him of any overt act. It also states that he was subpoenaed three times to appear before the federal grand jury in Brooklyn to testify concerning matters which have been the subject of inquiry and investigation in this district and that the books and memoranda kept by him in the course of his official duties have been used together with the testimony previously given by him in finding the blanket indictment against him and those with whom he is accused of conspiring. Wherefore, the affidavit asserts, the indictment is in violation of Bendernagel's constitutional rights because he was compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal proceeding.

Hazers Not Released From Judgment. Kewanee, Ill., Nov. 24.—Judge Green, in the Stark county circuit court, has held that the settlement of the Stoner hazing case for $300, authorized by the county court after the Stoner boy had been given a verdict of $14,000 against eight wealthy Bradford youths who tied him to a tombstone, which fell on him, breaking his leg, cannot now be made, as the lower court had no jurisdiction when the case was pending in the circuit court.

Baby Victim of Nurse's Blunder. Springfield, Ill., Nov. 24.—An application of arsenic instead of talcum powder to the body of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis of Salisbury caused its death. Two applications of arsenic were made before the error was discovered.

NEW CASTLE PUTS ON CITY DRESS

Decided to Become a Real Metropolis at the Election Held There Yesterday.

ONLY 165 DISSENTING MEN

New Castle is now a city—a real for sure city. It put away its childish clothes yesterday and will have a mayor, and councilmen and even councilmen-at-large. They had an election up there yesterday and there were just 165 who thought the town clothes looked better than city dress. Eight hundred twenty-one thought otherwise, so the swaddling clothes were thrown into the river.

Facts about Rushville's city government, published in the New Castle Courier, is said to have done much to swing the sentiment favorable to a city charter. The population of New Castle is about 11,500.

COURT HOUSE NOTES.

In the case of the Indianapolis Fancy Grocery company against James Sheedy of Moscow, a judgment of $32.80 was assessed against the defendant with $10 attorneys' fees.

In the case of Joseph A. Miller and Mary Miller, his wife, against W. H. Leisure et al., a suit to quiet title, the prayer of the plaintiffs was granted.

Charles E. Kinder received judgment of $856 when the defendant, William Fort and William Jackson, failed to appear. Attorney's fees of $52.83 were also allowed.

DeHAVEN POSTMASTER.

(Connersville News.)

A bit of news that has been anxiously awaited by a number of people came to the News this morning, in the following brief telegram:

"New Castle, Ind., Nov. 23, 1909. Editor News:

Everything considered I think the best solution is to recommend DeHaven and I shall do so.

B. O. BARNARD."

Of course there are disappointments in some quarters. There would have been whoever was chosen as, unfortunately, there are never offices enough to go around. Several good men besides Mr. DeHaven, sought the office which is the best political position in the county and made an honest and honorable fight for it. The lucky man had so strong a hold upon the confidence of the people of the county that he was twice elected to the office of county treasurer and his record there is entirely creditable. In truth, the only thing urged against his candidacy was that he had already been favored with office.

No man who knows Sam DeHaven as county treasurer will doubt that he will make a good and efficient postmaster, as would any of those doubtless, who were mentioned for the place. Good service is after all what the public demands and of this it would appear they are assured, although it is admitted by members of all parties that he follows a man who has made one of the most competent and capable postmasters Connersville ever had.

NEW DESIGN FOR POSTAL CARDS OUT

Bears Likeness of President McKinley But is Much Better Than Present One.

INNOVATION ON REPLY CARD

The local post office will soon receive a lot of postal cards of new design. On the ordinary card the head of the late President McKinley will appear, as now, but a much better likeness of the President has been selected. On the new small card intended for index purposes and for social correspondence a likeness of President Lincoln will appear. The 2-cent international card will bear a portrait of General Grant. A novel and pleasing innovation has been made for the double or reply portrait of George Washington and on the other, or reply half a likeness of Martha Washington.

The paper to be used is the best for the purpose yet manufactured and will "take ink" better than the paper now employed.

SOCIETY NEWS

Get the Want Ad Habit — It Pays

AMUSEMENTS

One of the distinct novelties in connection with the engagement of Robert Edson at English's opera house, Friday and Saturday, November 26-27th, will be his appearance in a farcical character, devoid of the usual athletic personality so closely identified with previous Edson creations. "The Noble Spaniard" is a farce of the early '50s, during those Anthony Trollope Days when the women wore hoop skirts and the men adorned themselves in high satin "toppers" and stock collars, and will present this popular actor in a most delightful environment. Everyone knows Mr. Edson as a romantic actor of no mean ability, but his introduction as a comedian—"a comedian of the Mansfield class," as an Eastern critic put it—will be in the nature of a genuine surprise to his many admirers here. Henry B. Harris has provided Mr. Edson an admirable cast, headed by Miss Gertrude Goghlan. "The Noble Spaniard" will be preceded by a military tragedy entitled "The Outpost," which concerns two soldiers of the regular army during the Philippine insurrection.

On account of the high school football game Thursday the matinee skate at the Kramer rink will not begin until 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The Palace theater will have a good dramatic film tonight entitled "Gratitude." The illustrated song by Miss Iva Brown will be "Dublin Daisies."

The Vaudeville will have a complete change of program tonight. Good crowds attended the shows last night.

The Star-Grand offers a rare treat tonight entitled "A Bride and Groom's Visit to the New York Zoological Gardens." This Zoo is one of the largest in the world, and this film shows all the animals so distinctly as if you were actually there. This film was taken by special arrangement with the proper authorities, and hence received the co-operation of the attendants. Some of the animals are made to perform. This is a rare treat and especially so for the children. Do not fail to bring them. Mr. Earl Robertson will sing: "You've Got me Going Kid."
